

■ KNOW YOUR RIGHTS – PUBLIC FILMING (UK)

■ Section 24 of the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 (PACE):

Police may only arrest if they have reasonable grounds to suspect a criminal offence, and if arrest is

■ Article 10 of the Human Rights Act 1998:

Protects your right to freedom of expression, including public photography and filming.

■ Case Law:

- Murray v UK (1994)

- Wood v Commissioner of Police for the Metropolis (2009)

Filming in public is lawful and not a breach of privacy.

■ Warning to Officer:

I have not committed a crime. Any arrest may constitute false imprisonment and a breach of my human rights. I reserve the right to seek legal remedy.

Keep this card with you when filming in public.